Electronic Toolkit for Family Caregivers

Dear Family Caregiver,

Few jobs are as challenging as being an unpaid family caregiver—no matter how much you love the person in your care. Even if your responsibilities will never be easy, there certainly are ways to make them easier.

EmblemHealth’s Care for the Family Caregiver Program was created to provide information, resources and tools to help manage the challenges and stress of family caregiving. Recognizing that family caregivers are the forgotten patients, the program seeks to address some of the needs of unpaid family caregivers of whom there are some 44.5 million nationwide.

This EmblemHealth Electronic Toolkit is meant to serve family caregivers. The term “family caregiver” refers to a non-professional who provides unpaid care for others.

The care recipient may be a relative or loved one, thus, family of origin (blood family) or the care recipient may be a special friend, neighbor, support group member or life partner, thus family of choice. In either case, you are a family caregiver...and we salute you and thank you.

Often called the “silent patients,” family caregivers are largely ignored by the health care system, and thus are at risk for depression and illness. With an aging population, medical advances that keep people alive longer, shorter hospital stays, and sophisticated technologies that allow sicker people to stay at home, the importance of family caregivers—and the demands on them—will only increase.

EmblemHealth has long been a leader in providing support and assistance for family caregivers. Below are ten important web based sites that I am certain will serve to assist you on your family caregiving journey. Remember, you are not alone. There is help available. Family Caregiving is a constantly unfolding experience and we hope you will find many avenues of assistance. We join you through this web-based publication as we seek to Share the Caregiving.

Sincerely,

Gregory L. Johnson
